

SUSTAINABLE TOURISM

Summary

Art in Tanzania runs safari and tour operations in Tanzania as part of NGO fundraising. Interns help develop the tour programs, guiding and marketing our tours and safaris.

Details

Art in Tanzania has been operating since 1996. We receive about 250 participants in our community placements annually.

Art in Tanzania looks to set itself apart from the crowd regarding safari and tour business by offering sustainable travel options. Safaris are commonly sold by tour agents located in the Western world. They sell the safaris, but only part of the money comes to Tanzania to support the economy.

Typically, villages around famous national parks are the poorest of the poor. The profit from our tours comes to Tanzania and supports the Tanzanian economy and community development activities.

Academic-level team leaders supervise your internship daily. We also monitor your work with a weekly plan and report system to ensure your progress in your study program.

The internship outcome is learning to use and get experience to implement your education in developing country conditions with limited capacity. Also, to better understand the opportunities in a fast-growing economy.

Work hours are 6-8 hours per day, Monday through Friday.

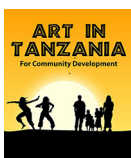

The program is ongoing, so the start dates are adjustable. Your placement is tailored to your background, experience, and interests to empower our daily work with the communities.

Daily tasks include practical fieldwork, planning, reporting, and visibility work.

The start and end dates are flexible as all programs are ongoing, many since 1996.

You and your visiting friends can enjoy low-cost, sustainable safaris and tours.

We commonly have 15-40 students from different parts of the world, from over 400 universities we cooperate with, and representing a variety of professions.
